Pearl River Junior College to offer academic program at Stennis Space Center

BY DENA BISNETTE

Pearl River Junior College is establishing an academic center at John C. Stennis Space Center.

According to Dr. Ted Alexander, president of the school, the center is being set up in cooperation with three firms located at Stennis, including Pan Am World Services, Sverdrup Technology and Mason Chamberlain Inc.

"We expect to expand our program there significantly next month," he explained as he addressed the Hancock County Board of Supervisors in a work session Wednesday morning.

The junior college has set up a new electronics laboratory at Stennis, using modern, up-to-date electronic equipment which until recently had been used at the Mississippi State School for the Deaf.

According to Alexander, the new center will allow the school to offer programs such as industrial technology to employees of the center, with classes beginning at 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. to coordinate with the students' work schedules.

About 130 people are already involved in the program, which can provide them with an associate's degree in about three years, depending on their course loads.

Pearl River is working with University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast to provide a bachelor's degree program as well.

Alexander added that only space center employees are involved at this point but sees future expansion for the new academic center, because there are now about 5,000 space center employees and non-employees could become involved later.

The academic center will become the junior college's second center in Hancock County.

The school also has a vocational-technical school providing the vocational programs for the Hancock County School District, as well as some night classes for adults.

In addition, Alexander pointed out that about 24 percent of the 2,040 students enrolled this year at the main campus in Poplarville are Hancock County residents.

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission recently agreed to operate on its existing revenue for the 1988-89 fiscal year and return its entire $187,000 allocation from the supervisors to allow the county to contribute to Pearl River's planned construction.

Part of that construction will include a $500,000 project at the vocational-technical center, Alexander stated. The remainder will be at the main campus, where facilities are in such short supply that 100 of the 180 students who qualified for the nursing program last year had to be turned down and three recently built parking lots expected to be adequate for the next five years are already.

Knife-point robber's escape cut short

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Waveland man was apprehended early Sunday morning shortly after allegedly robbing a convenience store.

Waveland officers Edward Prendergast and Gene Moran arrested Paul J. Williams, 25, of Midway Trailer Park in Waveland less than 20 minutes after the Majik Market at the corner of Sears and Waveland Avenues was robbed.

Williams had asked the store's cashier to change a dollar and, wielding a knife, took the money while the cash register was open, according to Investigator Robert "Poochie" Tartavouille.

Williams was arrested on Beach Road after the officers matched his vehicle to a description of the robbers getaway car, Tartavouille said.

He is currently out on a $5,000 with a court appearance set for Sept. 8.

Pearlington man charged with aggravated assault

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Pearlington man has been arrested on charges stemming from a domestic conflict.

Armando Morgan, 43, of Riverside Drive, was arrested at approximately 8:25 on Sept. 5 and charged with aggravated assault against his companion of nearly a year, Terry Stewart, 25.

He was arrested by sheriff's deputy Greg Lichtenstein and constable Gary Bennett on a domestic violence law that went into effect July 1.

Under the law, an officer at the scene of a domestic quarrel can arrest an offending party if there is evidence of probable cause, according to investigator Delbert Seay.

"The law is intended to keep men from just going around beating up their wives," Seay said.

Morgan is out of jail on a $10,000 bond.

Pearlington boy charged with rape

A Pearlington youth is in Hancock County Jail charged with forceably raping a 15-year-old girl.

Jason Garcia, 17, was arrested Sept. 4 by Hancock County Sheriff's personnel after allegedly raping the girl in his home.

At an initial court appearance bond was set at $50,000. Due to the nature of the crime he is being charged as and adult.

Waveland to increase utility bills

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen is expected Wednesday to approve the city's proposed $4.7 million budget, which includes increased utility fees.

Taxes are not expected to go up, according to Mayor John Longo Jr.

The budget is actually lower than the one for last year by about $64,000, with the major decrease being the elimination of an account specifically set up last year to pay for the city's 1988 Centennial.

The utility increases include another built-in increase to pay the local costs of the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management's $10 million sewerage improvement project, Longo said.

The project, for 75 percent of which state and federal funds will pay, involves enlargement of Waveland's sewage treatment plant, linking the Bay St. Louis and Waveland collection systems with the plant as treatment facility, and construction of the first publicly owned sewerage system in parts of the county.

The $5 increase will affect the city's minimum charge for water and sewerage, bringing the combined charge to $17.95 per month for the average residential customer.

However, Longo explained that customers will now be able to use more water under the minimum charge. The current minimum is 7,000 gallons of water, which will be increased to 10,000 gallons.

The budget also includes several other increases that will not affect the utility bills.

These include some raises for city employees, increases for the police and fire department, and increased funds for the development and improvement of city recreation facilities.

The public hearing on the proposed budget was conducted Tuesday, with no objections or comments received.

County to ask for state's help with high grass

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has decided to ask the State Highway Department for assistance with the state-owned roadways in the county.

This time, however, the problem is not a need for repair. Instead, the problem is the grass, which Beat Five Supervisor Michael Ladner said has not been cut this summer.

Ladner is concerned about the grass both from a safety standpoint and the way the overgrown vegetation looks to motorists coming into the county on Interstate 10 and US-90.

He said the high grass is a hazard because "in some places you can't see from one lane to the other" and because, when the grass dies and dries out this winter, it could become a fire hazard.

Citing an instance earlier this year in Jackson County where a fatal accident occurred when smoke from a grass fire obscured the vision of motorists involved, Ladner said he felt the high grass could be dangerous.

"I'm six-foot-four-and-a-half and the grass in some places is taller than I am," the supervisor complained.

He said the grass and the accompanying litter present a bad image for the State of Mississippi and Hancock County, particularly to those coming into the state from Louisiana.

"You can tell when you cross over. You'll be driving through Louisiana where the grass is cut and it's all nice and clean, and when you come to Mississippi the grass is high and there's litter all over the place," Ladner said.

The board had contacted the state highway department about the matter during the summer, but since then, Ronald Shows has been elected commissioner.

The supervisors gave unanimous approval Tuesday for the letter to the highway department.

Woman remains critical, driver charged with felony

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Bay St. Louis man who critically injured a Pascagoula woman in a three-vehicle wreck Aug. 31 has been charged with felony DUI, other substance.

According to David Sellier of the Bay St. Louis Police Department, Marlon K. Jackson, 35, of 414 Bookter Street, has been charged with "felony DUI, other substance."

Sellier did not state what the "other substance" was.

Mary Katherine Stephens,

52, was taken to Hancock Medical Center following the accident, which occurred on US-90. She underwent emergency surgery. Continued on Page 9A.

WE ARE... HERE

By D. C. Harvill

Greeted by a faint hint of breath from the Great White Bear posed at the top of the world, embraced by a subtle chill, as if from special fingers along the spine, I'm easily fooled. I think it is Autumn. The calendar says Autumn is weeks away. Ignore it. We'll take our Autumn when we get it, and now will be just fine.

Autumn, for those who don't know, isn't real. It is a bit of cinematographer's trickery, an artifice of light.

With sunlight falling at a leisurely pace, the mother-lode of golden sentimentality, of childhoods frozen forever in a solidified drop of amber, how can it be otherwise?

The equinox-slanted sunlight, leading the annual migration south, has an unmistakable quality of magic. One could mistake himself for Robert Redford in "The Natural" hitting that last homerun, or Tom Hanks in "Big" returning home as the child who, on a desperate wish, became an adult.

Where only last week the beaches were crowded with would-be pagans, worshipping the sun, now it is left to those of us who love it for other reasons, and to those few who wander in like seabirds blown astray by a winter storm.

No one travels to the Coast for the Fall colors, but for those who care to look, subtly, the colors are there.

Black gum trees—Nyssa sylvatica—among the first sentinels of the season's change began several weeks ago. One leaf here, another there, an incredible shade of bloodless crimson. But only for those for whom the world is more than a passing blur.

Russell Hoban in his novel "Kleinzeit" said there is only one place—time, and the time is now. If that is the case then the place is "beginning to look like Fall."

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Area high school football got off to a wet and shaky start this past week with one game being rescheduled last Saturday night.

The Hawks of Hancock North Central opened the season with a victory over Pearl River, La. while Bay High's Tigers lost a heart breaker to Stone County's Tomcats and the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws were driving for a go ahead score when time ran out against Pope John Paul II. Pass Christian's Pirates greeted new head coach Joseph Brown with a victory over St. John's Eagles on Saturday night.

Coast Episcopal's Raiders who have moved up to 11-man football this season in the south 1A District 8 of the Mississippi Private School Athletic Association won their season's opener against Bens Ford Academy of Bogalusa and lost their second game to Live Oak Academy of Moss Point.

The Tigers on Friday will test the strength of the Pirates in Tiger Stadium.

It should be a good game with both teams sporting new head coaches.

The high flying Hawks will play host to Pearl River Central in Hawk Stadium. Over the years it has been a very close rivalry between Hancock and Pearl River Central.

St. Stanislaus will travel to Gulfport to play St. John's Eagles with both teams seeking victory number one for the season.

Stanislaus looked good last Friday and if they play the same type of game this week they should take the Eagles.

The Raiders of Coast Episcopal, getting organized in their new league and style of football, will travel to Amite, La. to play Oak Forest Academy on Friday. We hope to see you at the games.

The rains of last week disturbed the holiday celebration for many folks as many had to change their plans on outdoor activities.

The number of visitors in Hancock County was down compared to previous Labor Day weekends because of the continuous rains.

The annual Labor Fireworks Display had to be rescheduled to this Saturday at 8:30 p.m. because of last Sunday's rain.

Lawrence Freeman, chairman of the Waveland Civic Association's sponsored event said they hated to have to reschedule the event but felt it was better to do so under the circumstances.

So, make yourself a note about the fireworks being this Saturday night.

The sailors of Bay Waveland Yacht Club have been very busy during the past week and walked away with several honors.

First a crew from the local yacht club took the U.S. Men's Sailing Championship in the Mallory Cup held in Charleston, South Carolina.

Next, sailors from Bay-Waveland took home a Lipton Cup victory for the second year in a row.

This means the Gulf Yachting Association's race will be held at Bay-Waveland Club in 1989.

Congratulations to the sailors of Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

Troopers write more than 165,000 citations

Mississippi Highway Patrol officials consider the recent Triple-A "Strict Traffic Enforcement Area" designation for the State of Mississippi to be a compliment.

"I can't think of anything better for a Highway Patrol than to have its state designated as a strict traffic enforcement area. Such a designation acknowledges that our troopers are doing their jobs," Lt. Col. Billie T. Hughes, assistant chief of the Highway Patrol, said.

In August, the Triple-A office in Jackson issued a warning to its more than 29 million members nationwide "to be careful" when they drive in Mississippi.

In issuing the warning, AAA Mississippi General Manager Don Littlefield said, "The designation is by no means critical. We're just telling our members to watch out and be careful. The Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol should be commended for its efforts in concentrating high levels of enforcement in different areas of our state at different times," Littlefield said.

According to Littlefield, the last time that AAA named an entire state as a Strict Traffic Enforcement Area was almost 13 years ago when two states, Virginia and New Mexico, were cited.

Hughes said Highway Patrol figures substantiate that trooper enforcement is up. Records show that 48,476 more citations were written by state troopers between January and July of 1988 than during the same time period in 1987.

He said that during the seven month January to July period in 1987 a total of 117,466 citations were issued by state troopers. The 1988 figure for that seven month period is 165,942.

"This represents a significant increase in citations for both hazardous and non-hazardous violations," Hughes said.

"Our ultimate goal is to save lives through strict enforcement of all traffic laws and the efforts of our troopers are getting positive results."

As of midnight on August 31, 445 people had been killed in motor vehicle crashes throughout Mississippi since January 1, compared to 495 during the same time period in 1987.

"Thus far this year there is a 10 percent decrease in fatalities overall, and a 13 percent decrease on state and federal highways under the jurisdiction of the Highway Patrol," Hughes said.

"Many factors play a role in the decrease in deaths on state and federal highways including the commissioning of 118 new troopers last year and the implementation of Operation Saturation this year."

"During just 10 Operation Saturation details, our troopers cited 8,711 motorists, 591 of whom were charged with driving under the influence of drugs and alcohol or public drunk," he said.

"Additionally, according to a report issued in August by the Mississippi State Highway Department, 565,000 more highway miles were traveled between January and June than during the same period in 1987. When more miles are driven, there is a greater potential for accidents and fatalities," Hughes said.

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor Ray Mabus

Study commission recommends streamlining state government

If there is one thing about government which most people agree on, it is that government is too big.

And, if government is too big, chances are it is not working as well—or spending taxpayers' money as efficiently—as it should.

That is the bottom line to a recent report by the state Executive Branch Reorganization Study Commission, which was created by the Legislature and appointed by me.

Mississippi's 150 state agencies, boards and commissions can be boiled down to no more than a dozen and save up to $60 million a year. Furthermore, service will improve as well as planning, which is essential to the long-term future of our state.

I am still reviewing the commission's report before making my own recommendations to the Legislature. But let me share some of the commission's findings, which make the need for reorganization clear:

* The executive branch of state government in Mississippi is—to a large extent—duplicative, unaccountable and inefficient in its use of taxpayers' dollars.

* The executive branch is so fragmented that state government in Mississippi is not coordinated. Long-term planning in many of not most cases is nonexistent. Employees in four of five agencies sometimes perform the state job when one, smaller set of employees would suffice.

* Mississippi has more state and local government employees per capita than all southern states, except Georgia.

* State operations have only limited accountability to the voters since most agencies are buffered by boards, the members of which have staggered terms.

* No overall state plans exist for any state programs. More seriously, no structure exists for the development and enforcement of the plans.

* Significant improvements in the state's human service programs can be achieved through the consolidation of agencies and programs.

* Even more money can be saved by combining the state's natural resource agencies into a single agency sharing equipment and personnel.

Streamlining state government, and making it work better, is an idea whose time has come.

In its study, the commission presents a strong case that if Mississippi does not make such changes, we could be dooming ourselves to decades more of being on the bottom economically.

The report concludes that "state officials must become highly aggressive in restructuring state programs, priorities, and organizations so that the state's businesses and workers can be major participants in, rather than victims of, the new world economy."

The time has never been better, or the determination greater, to do what is necessary to move Mississippi forward. I am eager to work with you in that effort.

IN CONGRESS

By Representative Trent Lott

Despite humble beginnings, America has quickly risen to a position of dominance in the world economy; a preeminence that would have astounded even our forefathers. It was a simple formula they crafted, but it works. And because it does, America works.

President Reagan once saluted the worker this way: "Their trades and occupations are countless, but with all their diversity they are one in commitment to the ideals of democracy and to the dream of a better life for themselves and for their children."

I didn't particularly like my first job—picking up dirty clothes for a dry cleaners, but when I got my hands on that first paycheck, it was all worthwhile. That memory still brings a smile to my face.

This Labor Day many are smiling. Our economy is now in its 68th consecutive month of growth, the longest peacetime expansion in our history.

Since 1982, we've created almost 17 million jobs. And 85 percent of those new jobs fall into the middle and upper income categories. More than half of them pay $20,000 or more.

And perhaps, most importantly, we are creating these new jobs here at home. The U.S. has created more than seven times as many new jobs as our Japanese and European trading partners combined.

We are a people committed to achievement—committed to doing our best. And ours is a system that enables every individual to set goals, reach them, and at the end, receive just reward.

That work ethic is what we celebrate each Labor Day, in a country where opportunity is real, not for a chosen few, but for all.

HUNTING SEASON

IS OPEN

A Sea Coast Echo Special

Preparation, care secrets to safe, successful hunt

BY D.C. HARVILL AND
DAVE R. HARVILL

Make no mistake about it. The temperature takes a downward dip, it must be Fall.

To many, Fall means multi-colored leaves, football, sweaters and tweed, but to others it means camouflage, blaze-orange, lead shot versus steel, hound dogs and four-wheel drives—hunting season is near.

Hunting season for many hunters, unfortunately, begins the night before opening day. These unprepared hunters dig their dusty shooting iron from the closet along with a handful of shells and think they are ready to go hunting. But they are wrong.

What these uneducated, or just plain lazy, hunters don't realize is they could be setting out to do a grave disservice to themselves, the hunting community and the animals they pursue.

By the time someone takes to the woods, marsh or field in pursuit of their favorite game, they should have many hours invested in preparation.

The by-word in every stage of the hunting experience is safety; unlike most other sports, hunting can easily turn into a deadly situation if the hunter is not properly prepared.

There is no substitution for training in the proper handling of firearms. All too often, children, some barely big enough to carry a gun, are sent out with loaded weapons and little more than the admonition from their father, "Don't point that thing at anything you don't plan to kill."

While that bit of advice certainly is sound, it hardly qualifies as adequate instruction in the use of an object that, with the slightest mistake, could end that child's or someone else's life.

Most states will not issue a hunting license to anyone who hasn't successfully completed a certified hunter safety course.

Mississippi requires anyone born after 1972 to be certified through such a course.

After proper instruction in hunter safety, the hunter needs to prepare himself to take advantage of any opportunities that might present themselves during the season.

Every hunter goes afield with visions of trophy bucks, incredible wing-shots and, best of all, tables heavy-laden with the fruits of a successful hunt. Those visions, however, usually amount to no more than dross.

These empty visions and equally empty game bags often result from a total lack of practice. Shooting a gun accurately enough to make a clean, swift kill which, like any other skill, can only be developed through practice.

Every hunting season stories abound about game lost, or worst of all, crippled, and damned to suffer due to a bungled shot made by someone who hadn't taken the time to acquire that skill and to learn the limitations of his weapon by practicing.

Practice doesn't mean just popping off a few rounds at tin cans. For practice to be effective, a gun, especially a rifle, must be sighted in.

Before sighting in can be accomplished, the scope should be securely mounted to the rifle.

But, the very first thing that should be done, is make sure the gun is unloaded before it is worked on. The barrel should also be checked for obstructions, since a clogged barrel could cause the gun to explode when fired.

Sighting a rifle should be done from a solid rest using sand bags or a shooting vise. Rest assured, the hood of an automobile isn't solid.

A rifle can't be considered sighted in just because it will hit a pie tin at a hundred paces; hitting a quarter-sized dot at that distance isn't unreasonable.

All this effort isn't just to assure the success of the individual hunter on any given hunt, but also to help prevent hunters as a group from being perceived as slobs who couldn't care less about the animals they hunt as long as they can satisfy their faltering egos with a kill.

Hunters must care for the animals whose lives they would claim. They owe it to the animals and to themselves to assure that, when they point a gun or bow at what they intend to kill, they do it with practiced skill and efficiency, so the animal doesn't suffer unnecessarily. By doing this they are taking a positive step toward assuaging those who would condemn them.

One thing is certain, anyone who doesn't care enough about his fellow hunter, and the lives of fellow creatures, to properly prepare themselves before they hunt, doesn't belong out of doors.

HUNTING 88

Think water safety when waterfowl hunting

By BOB MEDDAUGH

As thousands of hunters take to the nation's waterways to hunt ducks and geese, few take water safety into account. Each year, according to Coast Guard sources, too many waterfowl hunters needlessly lose their lives to drowning and other water-related mishaps.

Officials point to cold weather, poor visibility, inadequate weather information, heavy clothing and inattention to proper marine safety as potential hazards when hunting waterfowl on the water.

Shallow draft boats or floating duck blinds are easily swamped when overloaded with too many hunters, dogs, guns and accessories, and too much ammunition.

When taking to the lakes, rivers, sloughs, marshes and other wetland areas, you should consider what to do if you go overboard or if your craft is swamped.

Before shoving off, make sure you have enough flotation devices of sufficient capacity to keep you afloat in waders and heavy hunting clothes.

"The seat flotation device you used this summer may not be enough to keep you afloat under waterfowl hunting conditions," a Coast Guard marine safety officer warns.

Bob Allen, a world famous shooter and leading designer/manufacture of outdoor apparel, found himself in just such a situation in Manitoba last year, while hunting with his son Matt.

"Our Indian guide had rowed us out about a mile and a half from shore in a shallow draft boat. An unexpected storm came up and nearly swamped us," Allen recalls.

"The situation was pretty tense for a time. We very easily could have gone overboard. A long swim in hunting clothes, in cold water, potentially could have been life threatening," he adds.

Because of that experience, Allen designed an insulated flotation liner for his "Total Clothing System" line of outdoor wear. The Coast Guard-approved flotation liner can be zipped into any jacket in the system or worn alone as a jacket in warmer climates. It will keep you afloat with waders, and all your other hunting clothes, should you unexpectedly end up in the water.

To ensure a successful and safe duck or goose hunt this year, follow these safety precautions:

1. Have someone on shore that knows exactly where you are going, and when you expect to be back!
2. Dress properly, layering insulating material (such as silk, wool or Thinsulate™) that will offer some protection from hypothermia if you get wet!

3. Have a sufficient number of flotation devices for everyone in the boat that will keep them and their hunting clothes afloat if they fall into the water!

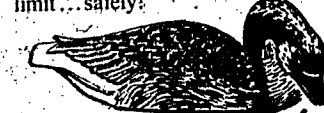

4. Do not overload your boat!

5. Carefully check the weather reports before you shove off!

6. If the weather looks at all threatening, head for shore!

7. Have a good time and bag your limit...safely!

License Information

- All residents, except those persons under 16, over 65 and those deemed legally disabled, are required to purchase a hunting license and to have it on their person while hunting. All non-residents must buy a hunting license.
- All residents and non-residents born on or after January 1, 1972 are required to complete a hunter education course before purchasing a hunting license.
- The license year begins July 1, 1988 and ends June 30, 1989.

*Not valid for Alabama, Arkansas or Tennessee residents.

Not valid for Alabama, Arkansas, Louisiana or Tennessee residents.

Not valid for Arkansas residents.

- Residents must buy either a Sportsman's License or the All Game Hunting and Fishing License to hunt deer and turkey. A hunting or fishing license is required to harvest frogs.
- The Archery/Primitive Weapon Permit is included in the resident Sportsman's License, but must be bought in addition to the All Game Hunting and Fishing License. Non-residents must buy the Archery/Primitive Weapon Permit in addition to either a Combination License, a Tennessee Big Game License or any annual All Game Hunting License. The Archery/Primitive Weapon Permit is required for hunting during the archery and primitive weapons seasons.
- A $1.00 agent's fee may be added to all resident license costs. A $2.00 fee may be added to non-resident license costs. Contact the Department of Wildlife Conservation for specific license requirements.

General Regulations and Requirements

- Landowner permission is required to hunt, fish or trap on the lands of another.
- Department of Wildlife Conservation Wildlife Management Areas are subject to special seasons and regulations which may vary from statewide seasons and regulations. Contact the Department for information about these areas.
- All deer hunters must wear, in full view, a minimum of 500 square inches of unbroken continuous daylight fluorescent hunter orange material during all deer seasons except the archery season.
- A camp permit must be obtained from the Department of Wildlife Conservation before beginning operation of a deer camp.

Migratory Game Birds

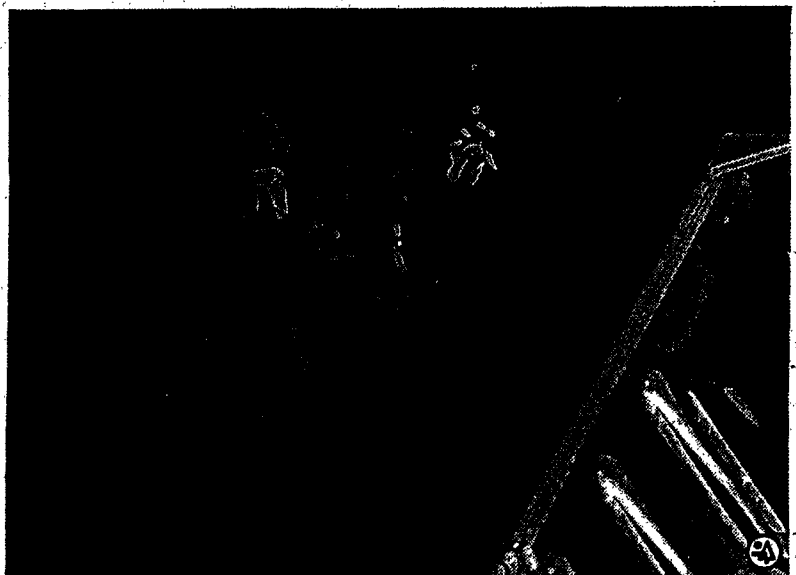

- Seasons, limits and regulations for dove, rail, gallinule, coot, woodcock, snipe and waterfowl will be announced at a later date following release of guidelines by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. See the digest of Migratory Game Bird Regulations when it becomes available.

Protected Wildlife

- All birds of prey (eagles, hawks, osprey, owls, kites and vultures) and other nongame birds are protected and may not be hunted or molested. English sparrows, starlings, blackbirds and crows may be taken according to regulations.
- There shall be no open season on pheasant.
- The following endangered species are also protected: black bear, Florida panther, gray bat, Indiana bat, all sea turtles, gopher tortoise, sawback turtles (black-knobbed, ringed, yellow-blotched), black pine snake, eastern indigo snake, rainbow snake and the southern hognoose snake.

Decoys and Bait

- It is legal to hunt or trap any animal or bird with the aid of bait. Liquid scents may be used.
- Electrically operated calling or sound-reproducing devices may be used for hunting coyote and crow only.

APPROPRIATE FLOTATION DEVICES can help ensure water safety. Demonstrated here, an insulated flotation liner created by Bob Allen for his "Total Clothing System" of outdoor wear can be zipped into any jacket in the system or worn alone as a jacket in warmer regions. It's designed to keep people in waders and other heavy hunting clothes afloat, should they go overboard while hunting waterfowl.

HUNTING 88

Shooting Hours

• Legal shooting hours for resident game are one-half (½) hour before sunrise to one-half (½) hour after sunset. It is illegal to hunt all migratory birds after sunset.

See the section "Legal Game" for information on animals which may be hunted at night.

Weapons and Loads

• Legal weapons for hunting between one-half (½) hour after sunset to one-half (½) hour before sunrise are restricted to handguns or rifles using no larger than .22 standard caliber rimfire cartridges (no .22 magnums) and shotguns with shot no larger than No. 6.

• Only deer, rabbit, opossum and raccoon may be taken with a handgun. However, sidearms are not allowed while hunting during the archery and primitive weapon seasons.

When hunting migratory birds, a shotgun must be "plugged" so that it can hold no more than three (3) shells.

Primitive Weapons

• Primitive weapons are defined as long bows, recurves or compound bows, single or double-barreled muzzle-loading rifles of at least .38 caliber, or single or double-barreled muzzle-loading shotguns loaded with a single ball or slug. All muzzle-loading primitive firearms must use black powder with either percussion caps or flintlocks. No telescopic sights are allowed while hunting with any primitive firearm.

• During any open gun season for deer, any legal primitive weapon may be used.

Longbows, recurves or compound bows only are allowed during the archery season on deer, except as noted below.

• Special crossbow permits may be issued by the Department of Wildlife Conservation Jackson office to persons who are paraplegic or who have permanently lost the total use of one hand or one arm. Call for more information.

Legal Game

• Raccoon, fox and opossum may be legally hunted at night, with or without the use of a light, and with dogs, except during the spring turkey season.

• Coyotes may be taken by hunters during the open hunting season. Landowners, leaseholders or their agents may take coyotes on their lands or leases at any time.

Hunting Dogs

• Hunting turkeys with dogs is prohibited. During the spring turkey season, it is illegal to run dogs in areas where the turkey season is open, except in permitted enclosures.

• Dogs are not allowed for hunting deer during archery season, primitive weapons season or still hunting season.

• Application for dog field trials must be made to the Department of Wildlife Conservation at least 14 days before the opening of the trial.

Hunting From Vehicles and Boats

• It is unlawful to hunt or shoot in, on or across any street, public road, public highway or interstate railroad or the right-of-way thereof.

• It is illegal to hunt or kill any game animal, furbearing animal or game bird from any motorized vehicle or boat. However, squirrels and waterfowl may be hunted from a boat if the motor is off and the progress of the boat has ceased.

Transporting Game

• Field dressed deer which cannot be visibly identified by sex must be legibly labeled on any material attached to the deer or parts of the deer and must include the following information: the name, address and license number of the person who killed the deer; the sex of the deer; and, the county where the deer was killed.

• All turkeys must have one complete leg and foot attached naturally to the body or parts of the body.

• See section "Non-resident Regulations" for more information on transporting game.

Trapping

• Trappers are required to have the identification number issued by the Department of Wildlife Conservation attached to all traps by a metal tag or permanently stamped on each trap. Trappers can get their identification number by contacting the Department.

Non-resident Regulations

• A non-resident may not kill antlerless deer except on lands he owns or on lands where he leases the hunting or fishing rights.

• No antlerless deer may be transported by a non-resident across state lines.

• Any deer transported by a non-resident must be accompanied by an appropriate license and identifiable by biological evidence of sex.

SAFETY DURING UPLAND BIRD HUNTING begins with blaze orange clothing. In fact, Bob Allen, a designer/manufacture of upland hunting attire, and himself an experienced hunter, refuses to hunt with someone not garbed in some piece of blaze orange clothing. "It's just too dangerous," Allen explains.

THANKING THE BOARD for their support of the "Moving Wall" monument to those who died in Vietnam, Henry Cook of the Vietnam Veterans' Association presents a plaque to the Hancock County supervisors. Gulfport public hearing set for Job Training Partnership Act

The Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs' Department of Job Development and Training (DJDT), in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Labor, will conduct five public hearings during September to obtain input on the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA).

JTPA is a federally funded program, administered in Mississippi by DJDT, that provides job training services to economically disadvantaged individuals and those facing barriers to employment. It is designed to prepare youth and unskilled adults for entry into the labor force. For the current program year, Mississippi will receive $53.1 million for JTPA programs. JTPA went into effect Oct. 1, 1983. In order to evaluate its effectiveness over the past five years, DJDT will conduct the public hearings to give program operators, administrators and service recipients the opportunity to provide information or comments on how programs may be improved to better serve the needs of recipients.

JTPA legislation emphasizes involvement by the private sector in the planning, design and implementation of training programs aimed at obtaining permanent employment. The act not only provides quality training and jobs for disadvantaged Mississippians, but also makes a viable contribution to the state by providing business with an available pool of workers, thereby encouraging strong emphasis on partnership and cooperation between the public and private sectors and on economic growth and expansion.

A public hearings will be conducted Sept. 13, 7-9 p.m., at Gulfport High School Auditorium, 100 Perry St., Gulfport. Other locations include Jackson, Greenwood, Starkville and New Albany.

Mason Chamberlain announces 2 million injury-free hours

The Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant (MS AAP) recently completed 2 million man-hours without incurring a lost time injury. This significant accomplishment is directly attributable to the efforts of Mason Chamberlain, Inc. (MCI) management and employees to make safety first at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

The plant is currently experiencing the lowest accident rate among all ammunition plants throughout the United States. David Turner, MCI Safety Division manager said, "This outstanding achievement is evidence that the team effort of all MCI employees is paying off." Turner continued, "to recognize this superior performance, Mason Chamberlain, Inc. has awarded all employees a shirt and ball cap with an MCI safety logo to commemorate this impressive milestone."

The Safety Award Program implemented at MS AAP in September 1987 has fostered improved safety attitudes. The Safety Award Program has motivated MS AAP employees to improve their safety performance through teamwork. MS AAP has experienced a major decrease in all categories of injuries.

Most encouraging is a 95 percent reduction in lost time cases over the past 12 months. Turner attributes this success to the improved safety attitudes at MCI. He said, "MCI people are working together, trying to ensure that MS AAP continues to be the safest ammunition plant in the United States."

Richard Auger, president of Mason Chamberlain, Inc. said, "I'm extremely proud of MCI employees for exceeding the 2,000,000 safe man-hour mark. With the improved safety attitude at this plant, I feel confident that, with everyone's support, we will reach our next goal of 3,000,000 safe man-hours."

There is a difference. These aren't art." Jarreau has been painting since 1955, but seriously only for the past two years. "Now I have the time," he said. "I am definitely on a learning curve," he claims. Included in the show are coast scenes, portraits, abstracts and a number of studies from works by masters. "I learn from them," he said of the the masters' works. He admits to having captured something of people's character in his portraits, but refers to himself as a Sunday painter. Trash bashers sought for beach cleanup

Organizers of Mississippi's Sept. 24 barrier island and shoreline cleanup are looking for more than a few good men. They're looking for men, women, teens, even kids if accompanied by adults.

Spearheaded by the Bureau of Marine Resources, Gulf Islands National Seashore and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium, the cleanup is mobilizing private boaters, industry, business and concerned citizens in an attack on the trashing of Mississippi's beaches and shorelines. The cleanup runs from approximately 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Starting and quitting times vary according to location and transportation.

"We're inviting everybody to round up friends, family or members of their organization and come to a major trash bash," Linda Skupien, cleanup spokesperson, said.

"Volunteers will be removing plastics and other materials that mar the beauty of our shorelines and pose a threat to fish, birds and other wildlife resources. They will also be filling out data cards on the amounts and types of trash collected."

Each two-person team will be asked to fill out a data card on at least one bag of trash collected. Data collected in cleanups in Mississippi, other coastal states and Puerto Rico will be incorporated into a national marine debris database to be established by the Center for Environmental Education (CEE) through federal and private grants.

"Cleaning the beach is important, and with the use of the data cards, Mississippi is contributing to the first survey of the plastics pollution problem on a national scale. Having the numbers on amounts and types of materials washing up on our beaches is the first step to finding a solution to the problem."

CEE has simplified the data cards and will also provide a guide with easy-to-follow instructions for collecting and recording information so that it can be used as data.

Mississippi cleanup zones include the islands: Petit Bois, Horn, East Ship, West Ship, Deer and Cat. Mainland areas include East Jackson County, Belle Fountain Beach, Ocean Springs Front and East beaches, and Bay St. Louis and Wave-land shorelines.

Unlike states with developed barrier islands, Mississippi's cleanup requires additional efforts to transport volunteers to and from the islands and to bring accumulated trash back for disposal.

In Jackson County, Chevron USA, Inc. and the Friends of the Islands organization are co-sponsoring the cleanup, providing transportation to Petit Bois and Horn islands and removing trash collected from the islands.

In Harrison County, Peter Skrimetta, owner of Pan American Clipper Excursion Boats of Gulfport, is helping transport volunteers to Ship Island.

Boaters and other volunteers interested in participating in the Sept. 24 cleanup may call one of the following people from 8-5 p.m., Monday through Friday:

In Harrison County, Jim Franks, 864-4602, Cat and Deer Islands; Sharon Walker, 374-5550, Ocean Springs Front and East Beach; and in Hancock County, Ellis Cuevas, 467-5473, or Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, 467-9048.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

"Whatever am I going to do with all that leftover turkey?" came the wail over the telephone from a reader, whose guest list for a buffet supper last Saturday evening had been decimated by the elements, leaving her with much too much turkey leftover.

"The ham I can contend with," she continued, "as the family will eat it up, but what do I do, aside from making turkey a la king or cooking up a pot of soup for the freezer?"

Just about a zillion things, I answered her. For instance, turkey breast masquerades quite well as veal in many dishes, such as tonnage (with a cold tuna sauce) or as cutlets and so on. As a matter of fact, some years ago, when veal was cheap, cooks often made chicken salad from veal, in the interest of economy—and, that is how veal came to be known in post-Depression days as "city chicken."

Other delicious turkey dishes include turkey tetrazzini (turkey and spaghetti in a rich, creamy sauce); sweet and sour turkey with rice; turkey hash and turkey pie and turkey-spaghetti in a robust tomato sauce, and so on and so on until the turkey's all gone!

But, one of my favorites, and a good one is turkey mole, a gift from Mexican cuisine, made originally with uncooked turkey, cut up, but adaptable to using leftover cooked turkey.

This famed Mole sauce (pronounced Mo-lay) of Old Mexico, spicy, chocolaty and delicious, originated, so the story goes, in a convent in Puebla, Mexico, when the nuns panicked upon receiving word that the most exalted archbishop was on his way to pay them a state visit.

Scurrying about the convent kitchen and garden, the nuns collected and cut up or ground up just about everything in sight—chile peppers, onions, tomatoes, nuts, spices, garlic—even the last of the chocolate. They then tossed the whole mixture into a pot and along with the turkey pieces, let it all simmer for hours.

Meanwhile, the local priest lost out on a good turkey dinner upon his next visit, as the good sisters had offered up their only bird to the archbishop!

Of course, just as with our sauces, the ingredients are changed to suit the tastes of the cook—some like a hotter sauce, some a milder sauce. And, I often cook this with leftover turkey—or even chicken—cut into bite-size pieces, and streamlining the recipe by using canned chilis. Here's:

TURKEY MOLE
1 cup slivered almonds
1 cup chopped onion
1 medium clove garlic, minced
1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
2 Tbsp. oil
1/8 tsp. cinnamon, same of cloves
2 cans green chili salsa 8 oz. each
1/4 tsp. pepper
1 oz. unsweetened chocolate
2 cups cooked turkey, in bite-size pieces

Saute the almonds, onions and garlic together in the oil, over low heat, stirring often, for 15 minutes. Stir in cinnamon, cloves, pepper, chocolate, tomato sauce and salsa, stirring until chocolate melts.

Puree in blender, or process, or mash well, or just simmer till about the consistency you prefer. Return to skillet, stir in the turkey and simmer for several minutes. Serve over rice, and, if you wish, top with additional almonds and raisins or avocado slices, or all of them! (Six or more servings)

(If the sauce thickens too much for your taste, thin with broth, water or tomato sauce). (Copyright, 1988, Katherine D.M. Caire)

GOOD FOOD BUYS

Prepare vegetables in different ways

When fresh vegetables are plentiful, you might like to try some different methods of preparing them. Careful preparation is necessary to get your money's worth in vegetables.

Always keep these basic cooking principles in mind:

—To retain as many of the nutrients as possible, avoid cutting vegetables into tiny pieces. Leave them whole or cut into large chunks.

—Use as little water as possible in cooking. (Reserve the vegetable water, and use when making soups or stews to increase the nutritional value.) And avoid overcooking, since that drives out nutrients. When the vegetables are bright in color and crisp-tender, they are ready to eat.

Steaming: Among the many ways to cook vegetables, steaming is one of our favorites. This method not only retains the nutrients, it also retains much of the vegetables' natural color. To steam vegetables, use a pot with a tightly fitting lid and a steamer rack. Add about one inch of water to the pot, making sure the water does not touch the bottom of the rack. Remember, it's the steam from the water that cooks the vegetables, not the water.

—Add the vegetables to the rack, and place it over the water. Cover and let the water boil over medium-high heat.

The vegetables are done when crisp-tender. Depending on the vegetable used, you may need to add more water to complete cooking. (Try layering sliced carrots, squash and fresh mushrooms on the steamer racks, and steam them for about ten minutes.)

Stir-frying is a popular method used now. Cooking at a high temperature for a short period of time is the key to stir-frying. This ensures minimum nutritional loss while preserving natural color and flavor of vegetables.

Cut tender vegetables such as zucchini into large slices, or leave the smaller ones whole as with fresh mushrooms. Cut less tender vegetables such as carrots and celery diagonally into smaller slices to expose the largest possible areas to the heat.

Heat a small amount of oil in a large skillet or wok; add vegetables, and stir constantly until they are crisp-tender. Use a combination of vegetables such as squash, zucchini, onions and tomatoes, or stir-fry only one vegetable, and add your favorite seasonings.

Sauteing is a close relative of stir-frying but doesn't require the high temperatures needed to stir-fry. To saute, cook vegetables in a small amount of oil in a skillet, just until crisp-tender. The microwave oven is rapidly becoming standard equipment in Southern kitchens, and some of the best foods to come out of them are vegetables. Microwaved vegetables retain essential nutrients and their natural flavor because they can be cooked with little or no water. Vegetables with a high water content such as fresh corn on the cob cook in their own juices. Here are some tips we follow when microwaving vegetables:

—Cover the vegetables tightly unless otherwise stated in the recipe.

—Stir vegetables halfway into the cooking time to distribute the heat.

—Arrange small or more tender portions of the vegetables toward the center of the dish. For example, when cooking broccoli, place the flowerets toward the center of the dish, while extending the tougher stem ends toward the outer edge of the dish.

—Rotate the dish during cooking to promote even cooking.

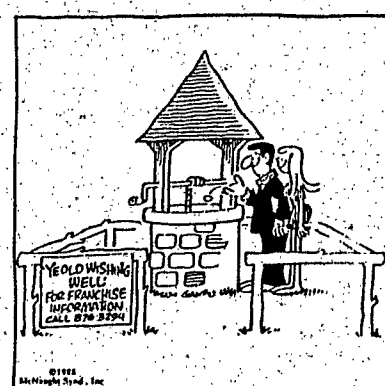

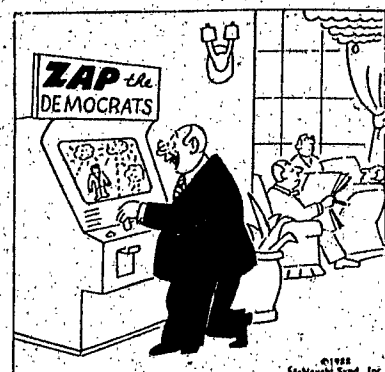

—Pierce vegetables cooked in their skins such as potatoes and acorn squash to release excess steam.

—To prevent dark spots from forming on vegetables, don't sprinkle salt directly on the vegetables before microwaving them. Add salt to taste after cooking or add it to the water just before you put in the vegetables.

—Vegetables will continue to cook after they are removed from the oven. Allow a standing time of three to five minutes to continue cooking.

If you are not familiar with microwaving vegetables, use these tips along with the manufacturer's instruction.

CONSUMER UPDATE

Spending Your Food Dollar

By Janet K. Lukens
Area Consumer
Management Specialist

How much does your family spend on groceries each month? A survey by the Food Marketing Institute indicates that people 18 to 24 years old have increased their grocery spending this year from $54 to $63 a week.

Consumers 65 and older have also increased their spending from $47 to $55. Other age groups are spending about what they did last year: ages 25 to 39, $73; ages 40 to 49, $90; and ages 50 to 64, $67.

The above figures are averages, not spending guidelines. The amount you can comfortably spend on food depends upon your income and other budgeted expenses.

The Consumer Credit Counseling Service recommends that the food portion of your budget not exceed 18-25 percent of your monthly take-home pay. Spending more than these amounts can cause problems in balancing the household budget.

Plan your meals before buying food. Well-planned menus help you to provide nourishing meals at lower cost and avoid extra trips to the store for forgotten items.

Shopping for groceries less than once a week and eating before going shopping will help you resist the urge to buy unnecessary food items. Also, try to shop alone when the store is not crowded.

Select a grocery store according to the quality and variety of food stocked, prices charged and services offered.

Compare costs of different brands, sizes and differences in prices between stores.

Factors which affect a store's price are food quality, volume of business, overhead cost, credit or cash and self service.

Use food coupons when they will be used to buy foods which are purchased regularly or reduce the price of the food product less than that of other brand name items.

Compare food prices, nutrition, quality and convenience. Calculate cost per unit by dividing the cost of the food by the number of units (pounds, pints, ounces, etc.)

Compare 'name brand' versus 'store brand' or 'generic' products for differences in nutrition and quality. Home prepared biscuits, cookies, rice, cakes, and dinners are usually much cheaper than their purchased equivalents.

For free meal planners, shopping lists, and additional cost-cutting suggestions, contact the Consumer Money Management Center at 388-4710 or your local County Extension Office.

BWYC retains GYA Lipton Cup title

Special to the Echo
By Walter Chamberlain

Bay-Wave Yacht Club members traveled to Pensacola Labor Day weekend to defend the club's Lipton Cup title in the 69th running of this prestigious sailing championship hosted by the Pensacola Yacht Club.

The BWYC team was successful on Pensacola Bay and retained home with the Sir Thomas Lipton Challenge Trophy, symbol of the Gulf Yachting Association Sailing Championship. This is the club's 12th title, the last produced in the three-year winning streak.

BWYC finished in the four-race, three-day regatta with a 1-1-4-3 for a total of 8 1/2 points on the low-point scoring system.

Southern Yacht Club of New Orleans finished second with 14 points and the Pass Christian Yacht Club took third place. Twenty-seven clubs within the GYA, which stretches from west Louisiana to St. Petersburg, Fla. competed in the event for a record amount.

BWYC's first race entry of skipper Red Sheffield with crew Randy Santa Cruz and Chad Reinken huddled high in the overcast sky on Saturday afternoon, a dark line became visible.

The second race on Sunday was sailed by skipper Peter Prater, and crew Cody Kriden and Mac Macken. Each yacht in this race caused several other boats to withdraw due to a problem with the boat's ability to handle the conditions.

The BWYC team exhibited fine sail handling ability and teamwork to secure the fourth place in first position.

Weather conditions forced postponement of the third race until 9 a.m. Monday morning, when excellent weather greeted the competition at the starting line.

Third race skipper Billy Suetel with crew Marc Hagan and Mary DeLoach sailed to a fourth place finish, maintaining BWYC's lead in the series.

Going into the last race Monday afternoon, BWYC's score was 8 1/2 points with Pass Christian Yacht Club close behind at 14 and Ponchartraine Yacht Club in the rear another 14 points back.

SSC Rocks travel to St. John Friday

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chows visit Catholic-school rival St. John in a football game this Friday at Milner Stadium in Gulfport.

Both squads seek to get back on the winning track, with SSC dropping a close 26-20 decision to Pope John Paul and St. John losing their opener to Pass Christian 27-0.

Despite last Friday's loss, SSC Head Coach Ken Lyons is very optimistic about this year's ball club. The Rocks had three key fumbles in the PJP game, which the Jaguars converted into three first-half touchdowns.

"The coaching staff was pleased with many of our kids' individual performances," said Coach Lyons. "What we need to do Friday is execute and focus our attention on the task at hand."

St. John is under the leadership of new head coach Tommy Price, who has been an assistant coach under Mike Gavin for ten years. Prior to coaching at St. John, Price coached at Harrison Central.

The Eagles finished the 1987 campaign with a 9-3 record, and made their second consecutive appearance in the 2-A state playoffs where they lost to Enterprise 7-0 in a second-round game.

Based on the Pass Christian contest, the Eagles appear to have many players who will play both offense and defense. St. John will return only two starters on offense, and two on defense from last year's team.

The Eagles will be led by QB Buddy Palazzo, and their offensive attack should center around running back John Gariga and flanker Chris Ryle.

SSC found a potent offensive weapon in split end Scott Heitzmann who was on the receiving end of two Cedric Smith touchdown passes. Fans should also expect some hard running from Gino Ascani and Vincent Bradley.

Another key factor in the contest will be determined by which team controls the line of scrimmage. The Rocks got solid overall play from their interior linemen, but Coach Lyons feels there is room for improvement if the Rocks are to win this Friday.

Coast Episcopal to play Oak Forest at Amite

Coast Episcopal High School fell to Live Oak Academy 26-0 to even their season at 1-1. Live Oak Academy of Moss Point executed a dive-option offensive to perfection in rolling to victory over Coast Episcopal High School.

Despite the score, the contest turned on two plays, a failed punt by Coast Episcopal and a touchdown pass by Live Oak.

Standouts defensive players for Coast Episcopal High School were safety Scott Covode and nose tackle Mike Kergosien.

Each had 12 tackles.

Offensive play was highlighted by the running of Hutson Lambert and the passing of Clay Cazier.

Coast Episcopal High School travels to Amite, La. this Friday to play Oak Forest Academy at 7:30 p.m.

Pass Pirates pummel St. John in season opener

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Pass High Pirates football team after a no-win season last year opened their 1988 season by shutting out the St. John Eagles 24 to 0 in Pass Stadium Saturday night.

In first quarter action Eric Dawkins put the Pirates on the board with a seven-yard sweep run. Bringing the score to seven—zip, Hai Mai's extra point attempt was good.

Derrell Benoit widened the point spread in the second quarter with an 11-yard touchdown rush. Hai Mai put the ball through the uprights to take the Pirates to 14 points.

In the third quarter Lashan Ausmer cinched his claim to Player of the Week with a T.D. on a 62-yard punt return. And once again Hai Mai made the extra point leaving St. John trailing 21 to 0.

Hai Mai in the fourth quarter put his foot where the points are, with a 32-yard field goal for a final score of 24-0, Pirates.

"The defense played well, and the offense was able to move the ball at will," Head Coach Joseph Brown said. "We had a great team effort. Our secondary played above their heads. The defensive backs, Jarrod Page, Charles Lizana, Lashan Ausmer, Eric Dawkin and Chris Lang did a great job. Sophomore quarterback Sammy Taylor did a great job of running the offense," the coach said.

Pass' outstanding offensive players for the game include Eric Dawkins who, on 17 tries, rushed 105 yards; quarterback Sammy Taylor with four passes for 37 yards. Lashan Ausmer, having made three receptions for a total of 34 yards, an interception and a 62-yard punt return, was named Player of the Week.

Outstanding defensive players include Tim Murrell with three sacks, Jimmy Ladner with six tackles, Earl Washington with five tackles, Donald Knight with five tackles and Terrance Lawton with four tackles.

In other action Derrick Benoit and Eric Dawkins each had an interception.

The Pirates face the Bay High Tigers in Bay St. Louis Friday night. Kickoff time is 7:30.

"We feel that the Bay has a very big, strong front line and I know Coach (Bob) Lumpkin will have them ready to play Friday," Brown said.

Bait shrimping issue center of Marine Bureau controversy

Department of Wildlife Director Vernon Beville says that the Bureau of Marine Resources credibility is "at zero," and it's time bureau officials made efforts to improve it.

"We've not only been burning our bridges down there (on the Coast), but we've been pouring gasoline on them and handing people the match," Beville said. "And it's time we stopped it."

Beville's comments came after a fact-finding meeting with bureau officials in Hattiesburg recently.

At the meeting, Beville announced that he will ask the Wildlife Commission to table a proposal to permanently close the upper coastal bays to shrimping.

"On Sept. 1, it became no longer tolerable to maintain the status quo, and send mixed signals from the Bureau of Marine Resources to the public," said Beville, who took the director's job last October.

Beville said he was disappointed at the failure of recent workshops aimed at solving problems regarding shrimping in the bays.

"Our recent efforts to address concerns about the potential adverse impact in nursery areas, along the Coast that focused primarily on the live-bait fisherman turned into a fiasco because our people were not working as a team," Beville said.

The problem-solving workshop is one of many to be conducted by the DWC to help in designing a long-term comprehensive plan for the agency. The plan will help the agency become pro-active rather than re-active, Beville said.

The workshops are being held within the agency on all aspects of fish and wildlife management.

Bureau officials "have been acting like Keystone Cops rather than like professional resource managers" because of lack of teamwork, Beville said.

"The public deserves better, and this agency is going to do better," Beville said. "As head of the DWC, I accept full responsibility for the image of the BMR and I am going to forge principles of teamwork, coordination and cooperation that will help us to address the key Coast issues in a professional manner."

Beville, who has spent more time on the Coast than any previous DWC director in memory, said teamwork is the only solution to the BMR's problems.

"The only way to solve resource problems anywhere is for the users and the scientists to work together. That's what comprehensive planning is all about," he said.

He said the workshop system allows small groups to work on problems before "taking their proposals to the open public arenas."

Beville said that, if the DWC people had functioned as a team in recent workshops, they could have made some progress in resolving the bay-shrimping problems.

"Managing coastal resources is a complex matter that belies expedient answers or quick fixes, and the public must have some faith in our efforts," Beville said.

"The declines we've seen in recent years in redfish, speckled trout, oysters and other fisheries surely point to the need for forward thinking action. When resources suffer, people also suffer. We are a public agency and, starting now, we're going to rebuild the public trust."

Beville said the BMR officials will be analyzing problems surrounding shrimping in the bays and will make recommendations to the commission later.

Live-baiters have complained that the proposed closures of the bays would adversely affect their businesses.

"We've identified several problems in regard to trawling in those bays," Beville said. "Some of these involve our regulation of the live-bait industry, and some of them lie in the industry itself. We intend to investigate these matters and come up with solutions, so we can present the commission with a solid management plan that takes in all aspects of shrimping in the bays."

The commission on July 27 approved a motion to consider proposals to close the Bay of St. Louis, Back Bay of Biloxi and the Pascagoula River permanently to shrimping. Now, BMR officials recommend to the commission whether the bays should be opened or closed based on the size and availability of shrimp.

Beville said that his request will not be binding on the commission and does not mean that the bays will be permanently opened.

"Our main goal is to protect our resources, and that's what we're going to do," Beville said. "The bays are a nursery area. That's where a lot of our marine life is nurtured. It deserves the highest level of protection possible. To do this we have to look at all the aspects and try to talk to all groups and people who might be affected by these regulations."

Beville said some of the aspects to be considered in formulating a plan regarding the opening or closing the bays are conservation, biology, law enforcement, economics and recreation.

MSU season ticket sales near record

MSU fans are likely to set the first record of Mississippi State University's 1988 football season as football season ticket sales near an all-time high.

Through Aug. 27, the MSU Athletic Ticket Office reports the sale of 13,320 football season tickets, within striking distance of the school record of 13,899 set in 1982 following Mississippi State's back-to-back post-season bowl campaigns.

Mississippi State's 1988 football season ticket plan offers a four-game slate of campus games including Scott Field matchups with Southeastern Conference contenders Georgia, Alabama and LSU. A six-game plan includes matchups with in-state rivals Southern Mississippi and Mississippi in Jackson's Mississippi Veterans Memorial Stadium.

School-record student enrollment could also lead to record student season ticket sales this fall. Ticket office figures show the sale of 4,200 student season tickets through Aug. 27.

Interpretive programs offered at Davis Bayou

A series of interpretive programs will be conducted on Saturdays and Sundays during the month of September in the Davis Bayou area of Gulf Islands National Seashore located near Ocean Springs, superintendent Jerry Eubanks announced.

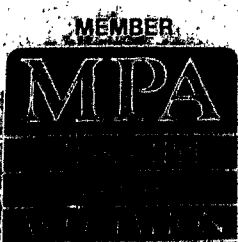

The programs begin on Saturday, Sept. 10 at 7 p.m. with "The Night Fantastic." Join the park ranger for a night hike along the Nature's Way Trail. Persons wishing to attend should bring a flashlight and meet the ranger at the trailhead for this one and one-half hour night hike.

Sunday, Sept. 11 will feature a day hike along the Nature's Way Trail at 2 p.m. Join the ranger at the trailhead for a one and one-half hour exploration of "Nature's Way Communities."

The interpretive program series continues on Sunday, Sept. 18 at 2 p.m. with a "Time for Turtles." Join the ranger at the Visitor Center for an interesting look at the plight of sea turtles along the Gulf of Mexico.

The series concludes on Sunday, Sept. 25 at 2 p.m. with a special program entitled "Coastweeks '88." Join the park ranger at the Visitor Center to learn about the problems associated with marine debris and the effects it has upon the valuable marine resources located along the Gulf Coast.

All interpretive programs are free of charge and open to the public. For information on these and other interpretive activities offered by Gulf Islands National Seashore, call 1-875-0821.

Bassin' with the pros

Whether you've ever noticed them or not, their little round eyes often follow you every move. If they get a chance, they tag along after you as you walk away from your boat. Their smiles say, "Please mister!"

Yep, most kids are infatuated with fishing and the fancy boats bass fishermen are sometimes known for. You can almost read the wishes on their cherub cheeks as a smile breaks them in anticipation of just the slightest recognition by you. Most kids want to catch fish and most adults would like to teach them. The trouble is, most adults don't know how to properly introduce youngsters to the sport. With national Hunting and Fishing Day in September, this week's column will give 'Bassin' with the Pros' readers a jump on taking a kid out fishing.

"The most common thing to do is to go after a species that's not difficult to catch," suggests Randy Fite, Johnson Pro Staff Member. "Go after anything that you can have action with. If you live on a lake that you can catch white bass, or even if it's brim, choose something that will hold his attention and keep him excited."

Even though there might be lots of excitement, don't venture off onto a three-hour fishing trip, warns Ken Cook, Evinrude Pro Staff member.

"The biggest mistake that I see is taking a child on trips that are too complicated, too long. Keep it simple; follow the KISS (Keep It Simple Stupid) method. Take a kid for an hour or 30 minutes, or until he loses interest. Don't try to keep him trapped in a bass boat to try and catch bass. I can tell you that from experience. I turned my oldest son off to it because of that; it was kind of a negative experience, but it is a point which should be well taken.

"Careful introduction is probably the key to it," Cook emphasizes, "a little bit at a time until he has some success. And if he gets bored don't hold his feet to the fire. He's going to lose interest anyway after just so many minutes whether he's successful or not. It's best that after he's had a little bit of success he can lose interest and then he'll go back to it sometime with a positive attitude."

Randy Fite also hammers home the point in making this outing a positive experience for all concerned.

"The other thing that I would stress—not only with children but with beginning fishermen—is not to try to judge the day what you necessarily have in the live well or have caught."

Rather, judge it by the enjoyment of the whole atmosphere and the challenge of fishing. If we're not careful, we start children out and things are so competitive for them that they sometimes miss the true meaning of enjoying a day of fishing."

Ken Cook gives us some tips on the equipment to start young children out on:

"Probably the best thing for a kid to start fishing with is a cane pole, line and sinker. That's it. When I started fishing with my boy, the first fish he caught was on a basic old cane pole. That's the best way to go until the kid's old enough to have enough dexterity to use a rod and reel.

"The next logical step, when the kid is three or four years old, is a push-button reel and spin-cast rod, one with small dimensions, obviously. It's important to keep some quality aspect into the thing so it does function properly because he'll quickly get discouraged if he gets in a mess."

"I think a lot of people make the mistake of getting a pole that's two-feet long. It's very difficult to use a short rod. I would say a four- or five-foot rod is much more appropriate."

"I'm talking bait fishing at three and four years old, where they'll be watching a bobber," Cook continues. "I don't think that you can introduce a child to lures until they get to be five or six. I think by the time a child's six years old—if he's shown the interest in the more sophisticated techniques, and he has enough dexterity to learn the use of a baitcasting reel—he can learn pretty quickly."

He can learn the mechanics of casting in just a few minutes. At six years old they can do that especially if they have an interest in using artificial lures. And, of course, they should still be allowed to throw a bobber if they want to."

Gasoline can go stale if it's not stored correctly, according to service technicians at Outboard Marine Corporation. If you plan to put your boat away for an extended period of time (more than a few weeks) they suggest treating your gasoline supply with a fuel stabilizer such as UMC's 2+4 Fuel Conditioner. Adding a stabilizer helps prevent the formation of gum and varnish deposits in outboard and stern drive fuel systems, and also absorbs moisture in the fuel system created by condensation during storage. Add the recommended amount of fuel stabilizer to the remaining fuel supply and run the motor long enough to get treated gas into the fuel system and carburetor. One ounce of UMC's 2+4 Fuel Conditioner treats a gallon of gas for 12 months, and is available from most Johnson and Evinrude outboard dealers.

South Central Bell cautions dove hunters

With the opening of dove season, South Central Bell's district manager, Pat Santucci is asking hunters to be extremely careful when they shoot. Doves often perch on telephone lines and poles, Santucci noted, and bird shot can puncture cables and cause out of service conditions.

According to Santucci, damaged lines hurt everyone. When customers are without service, the company must make time-consuming and expensive repairs. The party responsible could be billed for the damage. Hunters are asked to shoot carefully when near telephone lines or equipment to avoid damage.

GCCC Bulldogs face Southwest tonight

The Gulf Coast Community College Bulldogs, 12-7 losers last week to Holmes in the season opener, play Southwest at 6 p.m. tonight in A.L. May Memorial Stadium at Perkinston.

"We're desperate for a win," said Bulldog Coach George Sekul, whose 1987 team dropped eight of its 10 games. But Southwest also will be looking for its first win. The Bears from Summit last week lost 51-18 to Northwest, Sekul said.

He said he doesn't expect Southwest to be an easy victim. "They are led offensively by quarterback Brent Thomas, 6-3/222, a pro-type ballhandler who throws probably 60 percent of the time. His favorite receiver is tight end Larry Carter, 6-4/252."

The bright spot for the Bulldogs appears to be Southwest's defense. "It gave up a lot of points," Sekul said. "When that happens, there are obviously some serious problems."

The Bulldogs have some problems of their own. "It was tough losing the first game," Sekul said. "It got everyone in a bad frame of mind. What we are trying to do now is reestablish the team and look at things from the positive viewpoint that the season is still young."

Against Holmes "the Bulldogs' defensive performance was one of the worst I've seen in a long time," Sekul admitted. "It was unable to stop the run. Some personnel changes have been made this week in an effort to solve the problem."

On the bright side, Sekul said "the defensive secondary played pretty well. Cornerback Ronnie Steele (5-11/190, of Moss Point) intercepted a pass and made some key tackles. End Eric Drakes (6-6/240, of Edgewater, Fla.) made one key tackle. And linebacker Byron Porter (6-2/187 of New Orleans) also had a good game."

Standouts on offense included center Drew Adams, quarterback Chris Pettis, and running backs Errol Hooper, and Darron Turner.

"Our receivers caught the ball pretty well," Sekul said. "A couple of passes were dropped, however. One could have been the game-winning touchdown with less than a minute to go."

But Sekul described the team as "young and apt to make mistakes. We have to gain experience and become a good offensive team," he added.

USM grads are pro fisherman, music entertainer

By J. Syd Conner

For people who don't have real jobs, Tom and Paul Elias have done pretty well for themselves.

When Tom was about 10 years old, he discovered he liked the audience's attention while on stage. At about the same age, Paul decided that he would rather be fishing.

As adults, they have traveled the country in pursuit of their playful passions, turning them into profitable ventures as well.

"According to most people, you can't do what Paul and I do for a living," Tom, 39, a professional musical entertainer, said this summer during an interview at his family home in Laurel.

"People say, 'You cannot be a fisherman; now go out and get yourself a job,'" he said, wagging a finger in mock disdain.

"But my mother and father never said that," Tom reflected, adding that their parents' go-ahead attitude encouraged him and his brother to pursue unusual careers as performer and fisherman.

Also, both brothers bragged on their University of Southern Mississippi education and a mutual college fraternity experience in Kappa Sigma.

"I think (USM) helped a lot," said Paul, 37, a 1974 recreation graduate. "I think it was a plus factor that I had a college degree and could handle myself in public."

Paul teaches fishing seminars when he's not participating in tournaments or promoting sponsor products. Also, he has made and sells three 'how to' fishing videos. He says it feels good to know that he's helping others, especially children, learn a wholesome hobby.

Also, a good professional fisherman makes good money.

"If you have a decent year, you'll make $30,000 to $50,000 at tournaments," he said. "Most of that is gravy money—except what you pay in taxes—because what you make on retainers (for endorsing products)—pays the bills."

"The major drawback to (professional fishing) is you're gone quite a bit," he said. But his wife and four children are understanding, he said. They travel extensively with him during the summer, when school is out and there is a break in the fishing tournament season, which runs from September to June.

Paul said professional fishermen must really like their job, which entails long hours, travel and stiff competition.

He thrives on competition. "I've been a competitive person all my life," he reflected. "Even when I was a kid, I always caught more fish, bigger fish."

He competes against the fish

as well as the fishermen.

"It means something to me to go out there and figure the fish out. It's a learning experience."

If a competitive spirit keeps Paul's career afloat, tenacity is the key to Tom's success. A fourth-grade acting experience planted in him the desire to perform, he said. That led him to major in theater at USM, where he graduated in 1970 and became an elementary school teacher in Laurel—but not for long.

In the middle of the school year, he was asked to join a professional band as a singer. Tom gave the school 15 days notice and was gone. The band doubled his teacher's pay.

Since then, he has sung in bands from Florida to California, and has acted on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, in New Orleans, Houston and even on Broadway. He has held ownership in two clubs, including the Ritz in Hattiesburg, where until recently his orchestra and singing waiters and waitresses performed show tunes and big band music. Once, he even sold cars until he saved enough money to return home and look after his mother and the family place for a while. He still lives in one of three family houses "on the hill" in Laurel.

It hasn't always been easy for Tom. He lost his voice after his first six-month of singing job and had to have vocal stripping surgery. Though audiences loved a USM/graduate student-produced musical, "Cleavage," on Broadway, the critics panned it. It folded after three weeks. Also, his Depot Club restaurant in Laurel got off to a great start a few years ago, only to burn 10 weeks later.

But Tom says the performing life—and the money—have been good.

"I didn't expect to make as much money as I've made singing," he said. "People thought it was a dumb idea. I showed them that it was quite possible to make (very good) money without being a quote-unquote star."

"I want to perform. Whether I'm a star or not doesn't matter. Whether or not I work in the business—make a living at it and have a good time doing what I do—matters."

STUDENT PILOT— Heather Marie Pereira, a student at Our Lady Academy, attended the EAA Air Academy at Wittman Airfield in Oshkosh, Wis. The EAA Air Academy is sponsored by the Experimental Aircraft Association and the EAA Aviation Foundation. She is a student pilot who flies a Beechcraft Sundowner out of the Diamondhead Airport. She is a member of both the Experimental Aircraft Association and the National Aeronautic Association. The EAA Air Academy provides youth an overview of the history and technology of aviation. Participants receive workshop experience in the restoration and/or building of real aircraft.

Drug abuse programs receive federal funds

Gov. Ray Mabus has announced that 16 programs aimed at reducing drug abuse problems in Mississippi will receive federal funding from the Governor's Office of Federal State Programs Department of Criminal Justice Planning under the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Program. The total amount available is $753,151.

The program, authorized by the Omnibus Drug Bill of 1986, provides funding to school districts, institutions of higher learning, other educational agencies and community-based organizations to assist drug-abuse education and prevention initiatives. Most of the funding in Mississippi is targeted toward youths identified as being at high risk for substance abuse.

"Drug abuse has the potential of affecting, either directly or indirectly, every citizen in Mississippi," Mabus said. "Studies have shown an extremely strong link between drug abuse and other crimes. If we can reduce drug abuse in Mississippi, as we hope to do through these programs, we should see an overall crime reduction.

"Our efforts on behalf of the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Program are geared mainly toward youths. We are taking steps to prevent drug abuse, which goes hand-in-hand with our efforts to improve educational opportunities in Mississippi. If we do not prevent drug abuse among our young people, even the best education may not be helpful."

Some programs funded under the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Program include:

—The Mississippi Department of Corrections will expand Project Aware, a statewide program utilizing State Penitentiary inmates whose offenses were alcohol- or drug-related to counsel juveniles on probation and other school students concerning drug abuse.

—Gulf Coast Mental Health Center of Gulfport will expand the "Say Hey Cats" program to create a "Say Hey" club for high-risk elementary students. High school students will be trained to work with younger students.

—PRIDE (Pearl River Information and Drug Education) of Picayune will develop, coordinate and implement alcohol and other drug education, prevention, intervention, referral and support activities in Pearl River County.

—The Social Science Research Center at Mississippi State University will provide training statewide to attendance officers in the identification of high-risk youths, referral techniques and intervention.

—Gulf Coast Women's Center of Biloxi will continue and revise a preschool prevention program for children of violent families in Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, George, Stone and Pearl River counties. The curriculum will focus on development of self-esteem and communication skills.

—DREAM (Drug, Research and Education) Association in Mississippi will provide training and technical services statewide to agencies, organizations and individuals on various aspects of prevention programs, including development of a prevention resource directory, a statewide prevention newsletter, a prevention resource center and the collection of data for prevention program planning at local, regional and state levels.

SSC parents go 'back to school'

St. Stanislaus High School will hold its "back-to-school" program for parents and teachers Sunday afternoon, Sept. 11 at 1 p.m. The afternoon will begin with a general meeting in the school's Resource Center.

The leadership team of the school's newly organized parents' group will be introduced, and the group's goals for the coming year will be discussed. The meeting will conclude with a slide presentation featuring the school's 135-year history.

According to Brother Paul Montero SC, principal, the purpose of the "mock school day" is to give parents the opportunity to learn more about their sons' academic program by following their sons' daily schedule for seven-minute "classes" during the course of the afternoon. During the "classes" teachers will explain their classroom procedure, homework and testing, aims and goals, and so forth.

The "school day" will conclude with a social in the Student Mall. "This is one more way of our trying to involve parents more and more in their sons' academic life," said Brother Paul.

UNO offers financial planning workshops

A financial planning workshop for business owners and professionals will be offered at the University of New Orleans in two sections: on Tuesdays, Sept. 13 and 20, and on Thursdays, Sept. 15 and 22. Meetings will be held in Room 211-B of the University Center on the Lakefront campus from 6:30 until 9 p.m.

Course instructors will be coordinated by Hebert, Simon and Company, a diversified financial services and registered investment advisory firm in New Orleans, and instructors will include certified financial planners, tax attorneys and CPA's specializing in business planning. A tuition of $35 per person will include a workbook and materials, and spouses are encouraged to attend at no extra charge. Everyone attending the workshop will be entitled to a complimentary one-hour business planning consultation after its conclusion.

Sponsors are the Small Business Development Center of the University and The Chamber Small Business Council. For information call 1-(504) 286-6978.

Hancock Recreation Association announces fall calendar

The Hancock County Recreation Association announces their new fall program:

Aerobics, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays 6:30-7:30 p.m., Jaycees Building on St. John St., Bay St. Louis.

Co-ed Volleyball, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 7-10 p.m. at Valena C. Jones Gym in Bay St. Louis.

Basketball for Youths (boys and girls) Saturdays, noon-3 p.m. at Valena C. Jones Gym.

Adult Basketball League will start Oct. 2 at Valena C. Jones Gym.

After School Tumbling and Beginning Gymnastics program will start Oct. 3 at North Bay Elementary and Waveland Elementary pending approval.

Mini Classes: How to be a good baby-sitter, arts and crafts, programs, etc. Locations and times to be announced.

The association is also sponsoring a Calendar Contest for Hancock County/Bay St. Louis elementary school children.

The 12 winners will receive a savings bond and have their winning picture included in the HCRA Calendar. A logo contest for county high school students is also being sponsored by HCRA.

The Hancock County Recreation Association is looking for donations of both cash and supplies. They are also accepting donations of sports equipment, basketball, tumbling mats, art supplies, badminton sets, horse shoes, lawnmowers, rubber balls, etc. Volunteers are also needed to help out with the youngsters aged 6-12 for the basketball program.

Support the youth of Hancock County and become involved with the Hancock County Recreation Association by becoming a participant, a volunteer, or a sponsor, said Dr. Larry Heller, HCRA publicity chairman.

For information call 467-0470 after 6 p.m. or write to HCRA, 1014 Lincoln Drive, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

Faulkner portrayal presented at Picayune Library Sept. 18

The Friends of the Library in Picayune will celebrate 25 years of volunteer service to the Margaret Reed Crosby Memorial Library by staging "Oh, Mr. Faulkner, Do You Write?" September 18.

The presentation is a one-man portrayal of the world-famous Pulitzer and Nobel prize-winning author, William Faulkner.

John Maxwell, a native Mississippian and former speech and theater teacher, co-authored the play with Tom Dupree in 1981. The actor-playwright's intent is not to impersonate Faulkner, but to capture his spirit.

The play is set in 1949 in the writer's office at Rowan Oak in Oxford, Miss. where Maxwell relates many anecdotes about Faulkner. He draws from a variety of books, stories, letters, biographies, recordings, films and speeches.

Early on, Maxwell received blessings from Jill Faulkner Summers and Eudora Welty. He has put together a theater piece that combines enlightenment and entertainment, helping to introduce his audience to Faulkner's novels and short stories.

Maxwell has performed "Oh, Mr. Faulkner" in eight foreign countries on two U. S. Information Agency tours to the Midwest and Africa. His tours throughout the U. S. include the Smithsonian Institution.

This program is made possible in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts through the Southern Arts Federation, of which the Mississippi Arts Commission is a member. It is supported in part by a grant from the Mississippi Arts Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The play will be staged in the Picayune Memorial High School Auditorium on Goodyear Boulevard on Sunday, Sept. 18 at 3 p.m. Adult tickets are $2.50 or $2.00 in advance, children's tickets are $1.00. For information, phone the library at 798-5081.

Taylor supporter's to host fund raiser

Supporters of State Senator Gene Taylor's candidacy for the Fifth District seat in the U.S. Congress are hosting a wine and cheese party at the home of Madeleine and Bob Breeden at 978 S. Beach Blvd., Bay St. Louis, on Thursday, Sept. 15 at 7 p.m. The public is invited.

"We are expecting a large crowd, not only for a strong show of support for Gene among Hancock Countians, but also to raise funds for his campaign," Mrs. Breeden said.

"We also hope that the party will help enlist campaign volunteers to help distribute signs and knock on some doors," she said. Co-hosts of the party are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Benvenuti, Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Chevis, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Favre, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Frankiewicz Sr., Mr. and Mrs. William Goldman, Mrs. Dorothy Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Ladner.

Others include Mr. and Mrs. John Mason, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Merrifield, Mr. and Mrs. Rutledge Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Phillips Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Lenny Rupp, Dr. and Mrs. John Rutherford, and Mr. and Mrs. David Treutel.

NEW PRINCIPAL COUNSELS NEW STUDENT—New Gulfport Elementary School Principal Donald North, counsels Karlan Abshire, a kindergarten student, who isn't too sure he wants to be in school. Mr. North comes to the Hancock County School District from New City where he held the position of principal for 18 years. His previous experience includes teaching and assistant principal for three years. He is married to Carol North, an elementary teacher. He has three children, Kimberly, a sophomore at Ole Miss; James, a high school junior; and Matthew, a sixth grader. North holds a bachelor's degree in elementary education from the University of Mississippi, a master's of education degree from Mississippi College, and a specialist degree from Jackson State. After one week at Gulfport, North states, "I am enjoying the change and looking forward to working with the community, students and teachers toward a successful school year."

West completes summer research in Department of Energy program

Millsaps College senior Charles P. West was one of 100 students to take part in the U.S. Department of Energy's Student Research Participation program this summer.

West, a biology major from Waveland, conducted his research at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Oak Ridge, Tenn. During his 10-week appointment in the Environmental Sciences Division, West studied the effects of environmental stress on growth and reproduction in fish.

West is a 1985 graduate of St. Stanislaus High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. West of Waveland.

The major emphasis of the SRP program involves a "day-to-day," hands-on research experience. Dr. Alfred Wohlpart, chairman of Oak Ridge Associated Universities' University Programs Division, said, ORAU manages the SRP program for DOE.

"Only in a federal laboratory can students actually become part of the nation's most advanced pioneering science and engineering research," relating to energy production, use, conservation, and social implications in those areas.

Realizing the "SRP students will eventually shape the science of tomorrow," Wohlpart said, "UPD takes great pride in helping make this unique opportunity available to them."

The competitive SRP program is open to college students who have completed their junior year and have the potential for a successful scientific career.

The Student Research Participation program is one of approximately 40 undergraduate, graduate, and postgraduate, and faculty participation programs operated at DOE national laboratories.

Crosby Arboretum receives $17,000 museum services grant

The Crosby Arboretum in Picaune is the recipient of a major competitive grant totaling $17,000 from the Institute of Museum Services, Chicago, Ill., which will enable the arboretum to establish a permanent system for monitoring changes in the 11 natural areas it manages.

Announcement of the grant is made jointly by Lois Shepard, director of the institute, and Edward L. Blake Jr., director of The Crosby Arboretum.

The arboretum is one of 200 national conservation organizations to receive a matching grant from the IMS and was among over 400 applicants in 1988, Blake said.

"The award is most gratifying for our relatively young organization (founded in 1979) and will enable the Arboretum to expand the documentation of its plant collections and of its previously completed inventory. Information acquired as a result of the additional funding will also be used to guide the management and development of the Arboretum's display collection at Pinecote, the native plant center of the arboretum," he added.

The Crosby Arboretum currently manages 11 natural areas comprising over 1,700 acres of rare and undisturbed land set aside for the study, appreciation, and preservation of the natural heritage of Mississippi and Louisiana. These areas were the subject of a recently completed, two-year floristic study supported in part by the IMS and which enabled the Mississippi-based conservation organization to better identify plants and major plant communities within the natural areas.

The 64-acre native plant center at Picaune is the major facility of The Crosby Arboretum for interpreting the natural environment.

In announcing grants for 1988, Dr. Shepard said her agency's conservation project support program highlights the partnership that currently exists between the federal government and the nation's museums.

"Beyond the funding of projects that help conserve our natural collections, this partnership fosters a continuous dialogue with the museum and conservation community to develop new approaches to conservation that are in the best national interest," Mrs. Shepard said.

The Institute of Museum Services is an independent agency within the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities and was established by Congress in 1976 to assist museums and conservation organizations in their educational role and to help them modernize their facilities so that they may better preserve the nation's cultural, historic, and scientific heritage.

Superdome to feature George Michael concert

George Michael, the popular and controversial Grammy award winner, will appear live in concert at the Louisiana Superdome Oct. 18.

One of the few artists to hold the number one position on both the rhythm and blues and pop album charts simultaneously, Michael's "Faith" album has already surpassed the quadruple platinum mark in the United States in less than six months since its release.

Tickets for the concert will go on sale Saturday, Sept. 10. To accommodate the anticipated volume, tickets will be sold at ticket booths H and F on the Plaza level of the superdome and all Maison Blanche Ticketmaster outlets from Lake Charles, La. to Pensacola, Fla. Ticket sales at all outlets will begin at 10 a.m. There will be no parking charge for ticket purchasers at the Superdome.

Michael's 1985 concert with Wham at Wembley Stadium in London sold out 80,000 tickets in less than 24 hours.

The concert will be performed in a configuration adapted from the superdome setup used for the Republican National Convention. The Superdome's sound-enhancing, 90-foot high, 600-foot long curtain will be used to dress the arena in a setting similar to the one used for the recently completed Republican National Convention.

"This is a significant entertainment event for the area," Superdome general manager Bob Johnson said. "The positive visual impact of the RNC configuration, along with the dome arena configuration, should continue to benefit the superdome's efforts of landing major entertainment."

All seats will be reserved and all seats will cost $21. Tickets may also be ordered by phoning 1-504-888-8181 in Louisiana or 1-800-535-5151 outside Louisiana.

Parachute maneuvers celebrate National Guard anniversary

Parachute maneuvers will fill the sky over Ridgeland, Miss. Saturday as the Mississippi Army National Guard's 2nd Battalion, 20th Special Forces Group celebrates its 25th anniversary.

The celebration, which kicks off at 2 p.m. on Richardson Road just west of I-55, will include approximately 200 parachutists from the battalion's Jackson, Columbus and Camp Shelby units. The parachutists will be jumping from two types of aircraft, the C-141 'Starlifter' transport jet and the C-130 'Hercules' cargo plane.

The 2nd Battalion, 20th Special Forces Group was formed on September 22, 1963. Since then, over 1600 Guardsmen have served in the battalion, training in places such as England, Egypt, West Germany, Iran, Italy and Spain. The unique mission of Special Forces units requires that its members be trained in one of five basic specialties: communications, medical, demolitions, weapons or operations and intelligence. All members of the battalion must be jump-qualified.

The public is invited to attend this special anniversary event.

Teacher education scholarship available

College juniors and seniors wanting to become teachers may be eligible for a scholarship providing up to $3,000 a year to help finance their education.

The Critical Area Teacher Education Scholarship Program is administered by the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning and funded by the Mississippi Legislature.

The scholarship is available to juniors and seniors who have been admitted full-time to teacher education programs leading to a Class A certification in the critical areas of special education, elementary education (K-8), secondary mathematics and secondary science (chemistry, physics and general science).

Students repay the scholarship by teaching a critical area subject one semester for each semester the scholarship was received. Students may repay service in an accredited public or private school in Mississippi. For information, contact the Board of Trustees, Student Financial Aid, P.O. Box 2336, Jackson, MS 39225-2336 or telephone 1-982-6570.

How do you write a Classified Ad that gets Results?

Be Thorough

Sure you want your ad to stand out from the rest, but don't skimp on the sort of information that sells. The item's condition, size, age, brand name, and color are some of the basics readers want to know. Without them, your ad may be passed by.

Steer Clear of Abbreviations

OK, so you want to include all the important basics, now don't confuse your reader by using strange abbreviations. What is perfectly clear to you may be perfectly unrecognizable to someone else!

Be Honest

Exaggerating your item's finer points may bring in a lot of responses, but a buyer who's misled won't appreciate it—and will take his business somewhere else.

State Your Price

The cost of an item is one of the most important concerns of Classified readers. Ads showing prices are ones which get results. Giving a price also serves to "weed out" those buyers not in your price range.

Be Accessible

Including a telephone number or address puts you in touch with potential buyers. Be sure to state the hours you can be reached: a caller who can't get through the first time often won't call again.

Don't hesitate to call us with any questions or problems you may have. Our professionally trained sales staff know the ropes, and would be happy to pass their know-how on to you. That's why we're here: to help you get the results you deserve.

St. Stanislaus holds ring ceremony

On Thursday, Sept. 1, the students representing the 135th graduating class of St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis received their senior class rings at a special Mass and ceremony held in Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Brother Albert Guarino, school chaplain, was the celebrant of the Mass. He was assisted by senior faculty members Mick Quinlan, Brother Joseph Donovan, Sister Michel, Mrs. Dee Cichon, Brother John Hotstream and James Thriffley.

Tom Ackerman, Tom Eldringhoff and Brother James Burns were in charge of the music for the Mass. The ring ceremony was attended by parents and friends of the seniors and faculty members of St. Stanislaus.

Brother William Leimbach, master of ceremonies, welcomed the seniors and their guests. Brother Paul Montero, principal of St. Stanislaus, distributed the rings to the seniors. He was assisted by Brother Noel Lemmon, dean of students, and Dr. Michael Ryan, academic assistant principal.

In a short address to the seniors, Brother Paul Montero stressed the significance of wearing the senior ring as a symbol and the importance of maintaining the rich tradition of St. Stanislaus. Following the ceremony, a reception for the seniors and their guests was held in the student union on the St. Stanislaus campus. Mrs. Delores Richmond and Mrs. Dee Cichon, along with members of the St. Stanislaus Key Club, served at the reception.

Also, Timmy Ferrell, Mark Gambino, William Gilson, Richard Gleber, Stephen Guillotte, C. J. Inventor's Seminar slated at Jeff Davis

Paula Helwick Seminars will host an inventor's seminar, 'So You Think You've Got a Million-Dollar Idea,' in two separate phases at Jefferson Davis Junior College in Biloxi.

Phase I, the first two-week seminar entitled, 'Stimulating the Creative Mind,' will include such topics as ways to stimulate creativity, checklist for product ideas, an extensive resource guide, and ideas for much-needed inventions.

Phase II, entitled 'Getting Down to Business' will include such topics as market research, developing a prototype, patenting your product, and marketing your invention. Three local guest speakers are Alex Norcross, patent attorney; Don Attilio, with The Greater Biloxi Economic Development Foundation; and Dottie Overall, with the SBA.

Paula Helwick, who is presently under contract with The Greater Biloxi Economic Development Foundation to get several of her product ideas on the market, created this seminar to help local aspiring inventors.

There will be two Phase I classes scheduled for the month of September, the next class starting Sept. 20. There will be one Phase II class scheduled to start Oct. 4. Classes will be on Tuesdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Each phase will cover ten topics over a two-week period, totaling five hours per phase. You may purchase your tickets in advance by mail and receive a 20 percent discount. Tickets purchased the day of class will be full price.

Fees are Phase I, $45, and Phase II, $55. Total for both phases without discount is $80. A certificate of completion will be awarded to individuals completing both Phase I and Phase II.

For information contact P.O. Box 4236, Biloxi, MS 39535 or call 1-896-6449.

Coast Con, science fiction buffs hope to sponsor 'Dr. Who' star

"I must confess to wanting to be in your particular part of America. It sounds like a warm and thoughtful place, with a little bit of history that I can relate to and understand," said Mr. John Levene in a recent letter from his home in Middlesex, England.

Levene is a British actor who played the role of Sergeant Benton in 'Doctor Who,' which can be seen every Saturday at 4 p.m. on Mississippi Educational Television Network. 'Doctor Who' is the world's longest-running science fiction television program.

After Levene's confessed desire to visit the Mississippi Gulf Coast, a group of fans and friends have decided to try to make his wish come true. This was the main topic of the Aug. 21 meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mueller Jr. in Ocean Springs.

"If we can raise the money for John Levene's fee and fare, he will be the first ever media guest at Coast Con," said Mueller. Coast Con is a Science Fiction/Science Fantasy Literary Convention that will be held on March 17, 18 and 19 at the Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Future plans include a car wash, bake sale, yard sale, recycling of aluminum cans, and having a table at the Windsor Park Civic Association Flea Market scheduled for early October.

Persons donating $15 or more to the fund will receive a ticket for an exclusive tea party with John Levene to be held March 16. There will be a limited number of tickets available and funds must be received by Nov. 1.

For information write to Mrs. Nancy Mueller, 12304 Locke Place, Ocean Springs, MS 39564.

ON ETV

BEST BOY

'Best Boy,' the Academy Award-winning documentary classic, comes to Mississippi ETV Friday, Sept. 9 at 9 p.m. as the final installment of the 'P.O.V.' film series.

Filmmaker Ira Wohl chronicles more than three years in the life of his cousin, Philly, a 52-year-old retarded man who has spent most of his life sheltered by his parents. During the course of the film, Philly gradually becomes more self-sufficient, until he finally leaves home to live in a center for retarded adults.

Film critic Gene Siskel of the Chicago Tribune said, "We watch a human life take shape...and it's hard to imagine a more compelling subject."

Coal Ash explored as oyster reef builder

A joint marine research project may result in more oyster reefs along the Mississippi Gulf Coast in the near future.

The state Bureau of Marine Resources, the Gulf Coast Research Lab, Mississippi Power Company and the Sea Grant Advisory Service have teamed up to study the possibility of using coal ash from MPC generating plants to make reef material for the oysters to grow on.

"The coal ash is mixed with a small percentage of cement to form cluster shapes an inch to three inches long," John Hutchinson, MPC spokesman said. "This material is then planted underwater in suitable areas, just as clam and oyster shell reefs are now built. We are in the very preliminary stages of research at this point, but we help this can turn into a major, low cost source for future oyster reefs."

The utility produces about 200,000 tons of the coal ash each year at its Plant Victor Daniel in Escatawpa as a by-product of burning coal to generate electricity.

A test plot of the new material will be planted alongside a clam shell reef this fall. Within a year researchers should know whether or not the ash clusters will attract oysters and whether the idea is economically and environmentally sound.

"This could be the answer to dwindling supplies of clam shells to replenish existing reefs and build new ones," Dr. Richard Leard, director of the BMR said. "It's getting more difficult and more expensive to obtain the shells from Louisiana and if we can manufacture our own material at a minimal expense it could mean more oysters down the road."

The research phase of the project is being partially funded by a $45,000 grant from the state Department of Energy and Transportation. The test plot should answer many questions about the feasibility of the project. Researchers want to know if the oysters will attach to the new material and if the resulting oysters are healthy.

"The oysters will be examined to make sure that the ash clusters are environmentally sound," Dr. Harold Howse, director of the Gulf Coast Research Lab said. "We don't foresee any problems in this area but to make sure that this is a viable alternative to the clam shells, we will run environmental tests."

If the testing proves successful a processing center could be built at MPC's Plant Daniel to turn the ash into the reef material. This will then be transported by the BMR to reef sites. The total cost of the processing center will not be determined until after the initial research reveals whether or not the project is feasible.

"We currently store the ash on site at the plant," Hutchinson said. "It's not presently being sold but we have been looking for reuse options such as the oyster reef project. We're excited about the project because of the potential benefit to the oyster industry and the overall coast economy."

Both Leard and Howse said if the oyster reef project proves successful, other applications for the solidified ash could be studied. These could include artificial fishing reefs or creating stone crab habitats.

"It opens up a lot of possibilities," Leard said. "But right now we are going to concentrate on oysters. Our first priority is to find an economical alternative to clam shells for Mississippi oyster industry. We think this could be the answer but we can't be certain until we have all the data in on the economics and other factors."

REEF BUILDERS—Mississippi Power Company is researching the possibility of using these concrete-like clusters to build and replenish oyster reefs. The clusters are made with the utility's left over coal ash.

Betsy McCall magazine launched by K mart, McCalls

K mart Corporation and McCalls announced they will kick off the back-to-school season with a new mini-magazine and a special promotion for girls ages six to 12.

The "daughter" magazine called Betsy McCall in cooperation with K mart Corporation.

"K mart was researching different programs and promotions to appeal to girls in the six to 12 age group. We were contemplating using Betsy in a marketing program the same time McCalls was thinking of updating her. The result was mutually beneficial," said Michael G. Wellman, K mart vice president of marketing.

The magazine will be bound in five million McCall's September "back-to-school" issues now available on newsstands. There also will be a December issue and one in spring 1989. Each time an issue comes out an additional one million free standing Betsy McCall magazines will be distributed to more than 2,200 K marts. The magazine is free and will have a special display in the K mart girls apparel departments.

McCall's created Betsy in 1951 as a cutout doll inside the magazine, used to promote an activity that their female readers could share with their daughters.

"The Betsy of the '80s is no longer a paper doll. She's the editor of her own magazine. Betsy is an illustrated character who talks to young girls through her magazine," said Bobbie Halfin, associate publisher of McCall's and newly appointed publisher of the Betsy McCall Magazine.

McCall Magazine.

The magazine will list Betsy McCall as the editor-in-chief to signify to the young reader that the magazine is truly written by "one of them."

"The Betsy McCall Magazine explores the world of kids through their own eyes, featuring fashions, health and nutrition tips, kid-proof recipes and even a rap session column where kids can air their views," says Halfin.

The magazine will be written by professional journalists. McCall's contributing editor and consultant Dr. Lee Salk, renowned clinical professor of psychology in psychiatry and pediatrics at the New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, will oversee the magazine's educational features.

The first issue announces a contest in which Betsy will be looking for a "Reader of The Year." Entry forms, rules, and instructions are available in the K mart girls' department by the special magazine display. To enter, girls will write to Betsy telling her about themselves and why they agree or disagree with what she is saying in her magazine. The essay must be 60 words or less and the entrants must also include a color snapshot of themselves.

A grand prize winner and five finalists will be selected. The grand prize winner will be named "The Betsy McCall Reader of The Year." She will receive $3,000, be featured in one of the Betsy McCall's issues, act as spokesperson for Betsy McCall and K mart, and receive a $1,000 wardrobe from K mart.

The five finalists will each receive a $300 K mart gift certificate and become one of the Betsy McCall Magazine editors.
